

Oral Argument Calendar Notice

Argument scheduled for August 5

On July 15, 2025, the clerk schedules oral argument in A.R.M. v. Attorney General for August 5. Petitioner will have twenty minutes, including two minutes reserved for rebuttal, and the institutional respondent will share the remaining argument time as directed at the session. Counsel must appear prepared to identify the precise AR pages and authorities supporting each answer. No testimony, new exhibit, or unsworn factual submission will be received.

The panel expects argument on the difference between restoring admitted P-7 and excluding the post-order proffer; whether the agency evaluated Unit Four, Harbor League, and registry pathways together; whether complaint routing and formal safeguards were meaningfully considered under the acquiescence standard; and what remedy respects the statutory standard of review. The scheduling of argument expresses no view about the disposition and does not itself mark the case submitted.

Intervening authority and logistics

The parties shall be prepared to address Riley v. Bondi, decided June 26, 2025, and its treatment of Section 1252(b)(1) as a nonjurisdictional claims-processing rule. The actual docket shows a February 11 petition tender, followed by the February 12 order-copy cure, and no respondent motion invoking the timing rule. Counsel should explain whether Riley affects any issue the panel must decide on those facts without turning a hypothetical late petition into the present case.

A three-member panel will hear the matter. The clerk will announce the panel at the session, and counsel should use the announced forms of address. The clerk will separately record whether argument occurred and when the matter was submitted. This notice fixes the calendar date, time allocation, and expected topics; it does not enter a merits ruling or substitute for the later submission order.
