Mandate

Issued: August 7, 2026 Synthetic docket: SYN-CA4-26-CV-4106 Originating docket: SYN-DMD-25-CV-0914

The judgment entered July 17, 2026, is now placed in effect as the mandate of this fictional Court. The matter is returned to the district court for proceedings consistent with the published opinion and judgment.

Because DOE is a United States agency, Rule 40(d)(1) ordinarily provides forty-five days to seek rehearing. The July 17 opinion and judgment specifically shortened that period to fourteen days, ending July 31. No timely petition or later timing order intervened. Seven days have now elapsed under Rule 41(b), making August 7 the expressly calculated mandate date.

On remand, the limited 7(E) affirmance remains controlling for adequately supported nonpublic trigger relationships, response ordering, escalation structure, and implementation details within the operational decision trees. The district court shall not direct disclosure of that protected information.

The returned matters are categorical 7(F), segregability, and the breadth of judicial-record restrictions. DOE may make a narrower safety showing tied to expected danger to an individual and must conduct a renewed segregation review accounting for RLS-OG-002. Any renewed access restriction requires an analysis directed to the particular judicial record, public notice, consideration of alternatives, and supported duration. This mandate expresses no predetermined outcome for those inquiries.

Transmission and Interim Access Review

The Clerk transmits the opinion, judgment, mandate, and certified record to the district court under synthetic docket SYN-DMD-25-CV-0914. The appellate docket shall reflect issuance on August 7, 2026. Service is made through the synthetic system on Tamsin Roe, Leo Marr, and Corin Pell.

Consistent with the May 8 interim order and the published opinion, the Clerk shall review each of the four controlled appellate counterparts at mandate. Public versions remain available. Continued restriction, if requested, must be justified for the specified document under the applicable access standard; prior session eligibility confers no lasting entitlement.

The appellate proceedings terminate upon issuance of this mandate, subject only to a later lawful order of the Court. The district court regains authority to carry out the three remanded inquiries while preserving the affirmed 7(E) boundary. No real system, person, instruction, credential, infrastructure fact, or event is identified in this document. The Clerk issues the mandate at the direction of Presiding Judge Vale, Judge Quill, and Judge Reed, all fictional composite profiles.
