Certified Record Transmittal and Index

Filed: February 9, 2026 Synthetic district docket: SYN-DMD-25-CV-0914 Certifying clerk: Teren Wye, fictional district clerk

The district clerk certifies the record designated for the appeal noticed February 2, 2026. The transmitted district record contains thirty-seven public or controlled source documents, ending with this certification, and preserves the access status reflected on the district docket.

Public materials are included in the ordinary record copy. Controlled counterparts are identified in the index but remain subject to the November 26, 2025 sealing order. Their transmission, if authorized, occurs through the fictional court's restricted channel and does not place them in the public record.

The index uses document titles and dates rather than disclosing the content of a controlled field. It includes the administrative record, pleadings, declarations, Vaughn materials, paired sample records, summary-judgment filings, sealing papers, opinion, final judgment, docket report, and notice of appeal.

This certification concerns completeness and custody only. It does not endorse the district court's legal conclusions, forecast appellate action, or modify access. No real filing or cyber material is transmitted.

Teren Wye certifies that the listed titles, dates, sequence, and access designations match the fictional district docket. The public record is transmitted to the fictional Fourth Circuit exercise clerk. Controlled items are made available only under the courts' authorized procedure.

The district record closes with this certification. No appellate brief, order, judgment, or mandate is included. The transmittal neither predicts nor resolves any later appellate event.

The clerk retains the district originals according to the fictional court's ordinary recordkeeping practice. Certification confirms the copies against those originals but creates no new evidence and changes no filing date.
