

SYNTHETIC APPELLATE MINUTE SHEET — FICTIONAL CASE — NOT AN ACTUAL COURT RECORD

United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit

Piedmont Booksellers Guild v. City of Norvale

No. SYN-CA4-26-CV-4103 Oral Argument Held and Case Submitted Entered June 10, 2026

Oral argument was held on June 10, 2026, before a three-judge composite panel. Judge Quill presided, joined by Judges Fen and Vale. Counsel for the City of Norvale and the Piedmont Booksellers Guild appeared and answered questions. The courtroom deputy recorded the appearances and the argument time used. No witness testified, no exhibit was admitted, and no factual material outside the joint appendix was accepted.

The panel questioned counsel about the source and scope of jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1292(a)(1); whether the remaining announced book fairs preserve a live controversy; the relationship between compensation and operational burdens; the distinction between presentation logistics and a speaker's identity or topic; the evidentiary support for the fee schedule; the four preliminary-injunction factors; and the precision and security requirements of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 65.

Each side received a full opportunity to address the panel's questions within the allotted session.

City counsel requested reversal of the preliminary injunction or, alternatively, vacatur and remand for a more precise order. Guild counsel requested affirmance and stated that any Rule 65 correction should be made without dissolving interim protection. The panel asked both counsel whether a limited remand could preserve the existing restraint until the district court enters a superseding compliant order. Their answers are preserved in the audio record of argument and do not themselves constitute findings or a disposition.

The Court took the appeal under submission at the conclusion of argument. The May 20 mootness ruling remains in effect, and the January 23 preliminary injunction remains governed by its existing terms pending further order. No petition for rehearing, motion concerning mandate, or later judgment exists as of this minute sheet.

Entered at the direction of the panel on June 10, 2026. The Clerk shall maintain the argument recording under ordinary retention procedures and notify counsel when judgment is entered.
