United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit

Piedmont Booksellers Guild v. City of Norvale

No. SYN-CA4-26-CV-4103-CF-NEVER-OCCURRED

Post-Stay-Denial Release Order

Entered July 13, 2026

The clerk has reviewed the docket for issuance of the mandate. Judgment was entered June 18, 2026. The ordinary fourteen-day period for a rehearing petition expired July 2. The City filed a timely motion to stay the mandate on that date, and the panel denied the motion on July 6. Federal Rule of Appellate Procedure 41(b) therefore uses the July 6 denial as the later event and places ordinary issuance seven days afterward, on July 13.

No petition for panel rehearing or rehearing en banc, further stay order, extension order, or other direction preventing issuance appears on the docket as of today. The denial order did not command immediate release; the full seven-day interval following that order has now elapsed. The prerequisites for release under Rule 41(b) are satisfied without shortening the prescribed period.

The mandate shall issue today and shall become effective upon issuance under Rule 41(c). It shall include the certified June 18 judgment, the opinion filed with that judgment, and the stated direction concerning costs. Transmission returns authority to the district court to carry out the limited corrective remand while preserving the appellate disposition. This release order does not alter the judgment, dissolve interim protection independently of the judgment's terms, or adjudicate the unresolved claims for permanent relief. The clerk shall transmit the mandate and electronic notice to counsel and the district clerk on July 13, 2026.
