Certificate of Confidentiality and Access List

Filed: March 2, 2026 Synthetic docket: SYN-CA4-26-CV-4106 Certifying counsel: Corin Pell, fictional counsel for DOE

This certificate accompanies DOE’s public motion for limited appellate sealing. It identifies four equal-page counterpart sets: Open Grid’s public redacted opening brief and sealed highlighted opening brief; DOE’s public redacted response brief and sealed highlighted response brief; Open Grid’s public redacted reply brief and sealed highlighted reply brief; and the public redacted joint appendix excerpts and sealed joint appendix excerpts.

Each public counterpart remains on the ordinary docket. Each controlled counterpart uses invented, nontechnical labels solely to preserve semantic placement for adjudication. None contains an authentic cyber instruction, real infrastructure fact, credential, personal contact, live incident detail, or actionable sequence. The confidentiality designation is therefore an exercise condition tied to the court’s review, not a representation that a genuine government secret has been reproduced.

For every pair, the motion, this certificate, and the public counterpart are required before temporary viewing may be granted. A title or filing event alone is insufficient. The certificate does not cover another document by analogy and does not authorize a future filing that lacks its own listed public counterpart.

Limited Eligible Access List

The eligible judicial viewers are Presiding Judge Vale, Judge Quill, Judge Reed, and authorized chambers or Clerk's Office staff assigned to this appeal whose duties require controlled review. The eligible counsel viewers are Tamsin Roe and Leo Marr for Open Grid Archive and Corin Pell for DOE.

No other person is listed. In particular, the appearance of Nila Quen, Elian Voss, Kira Morrow, Dalen Saye, Ari Tern, Milo Crest, Nessa Rill, Sable Hart, or Teren Wye in the underlying record does not confer appellate viewing eligibility. Organizational employment, participation as a declarant, or prior district-level access also does not substitute for inclusion in this list.

Eligibility is nontransferable and does not permit counsel to delegate access to a client, assistant, witness, vendor, or unrelated colleague. Authorized court staff may view only to perform assigned adjudicative or docket duties. A person who changes roles or leaves the matter must not retain access based on an earlier status.

This list is an outer boundary, not a standing grant. Every actual viewing remains dependent on a valid session event for the particular disclosure and the exact resolved pack closure specified by the order.

Session Grant and Verification Conditions

The authored access policy begins from a public-only projection. When the record is loaded without a valid grant, only the public counterpart is resolved and the controlled asset remains unavailable. A shared logical citation identifies a subject for discussion but cannot be used to infer a controlled asset address or obtain its contents.

An authorized open must be limited to one listed disclosure and one exact resolved pack closure. Before a leased snapshot is exposed, the designated content-addressed store must confirm the expected controlled path, byte size, digest, readability, and page count. A mismatch ends the attempted open rather than falling back to an unchecked file.

The grant does not persist beyond its session and does not attach to the person's general account or appearance. Permission for the opening brief does not reach the response, reply, or appendix. A later revision or different root requires a separately valid authorization because the prior exact-closure condition no longer identifies the bytes under review.

These statements define the synthetic policy the parties ask the court to adopt. They are not an audit result, a promise about an external court platform, or technical guidance for protecting real information.

Revocation and Counsel Certification

Revocation ends the current viewing lease, removes the controlled document row, and restores the public counterpart as the only visible projection. A revoked session may not rely on a cached citation, prior snapshot, or earlier eligibility determination to reopen the asset. Any later viewing requires a new event satisfying the same document and exact-closure conditions.

The court may revoke access for one disclosure while leaving another grant unaffected. It may also remove a person from eligibility, narrow the covered material, direct a revised public counterpart, or terminate all interim treatment. The certificate creates no property interest, permanent entitlement, or presumption favoring continued sealing after merits disposition.

Corin Pell certifies that the four pair descriptions, access names, and conditions stated here are complete for the March 2 motion. Tamsin Roe and Leo Marr have received the public motion and certificate through the fictional docket. Their receipt does not concede the legal sufficiency or duration of the requested restriction.

The certificate contains no controlled inert label and no actionable cyber content. It records an adjudicative access boundary only. Any later order should state that it adopts this boundary for the exercise without certifying implementation outside the authored record.
