Never-Filed Ordinary Mandate

Never-issued date: May 1, 2026 Isolated synthetic docket: SYN-CA4-26-CR-4201-CF-DAY15-NEVER-FILED Never-filed document number: 10

The fictional Fourth Circuit clerk issues this mandate only within the isolated day-15 exercise. The April 10 opinion and judgment dismissed the appeal under Rule 4(b) without reaching the alternative waiver ground or either sentencing issue.

No petition for panel rehearing or rehearing en banc was filed by Friday, April 24, the ordinary 14-day expiration under Rule 40(d)(1). No motion stayed the mandate. Rule 41(b)'s ordinary seven-day interval then ran from expiration of the rehearing period through Friday, May 1.

The mandate issues on May 1 without a motion to shorten, an order accelerating issuance, or any departure from the standard intervals. It consists of a certified copy of the isolated judgment and this notice. Maela Cross signs as fictional exercise clerk and supplies no real address, account, credential, or transmission route.

This document was never issued on the actual appellate docket. Its dates and consequences belong exclusively to SYN-CA4-26-CR-4201-CF-DAY15-NEVER-FILED.

Effect and Certification

The mandate terminates the isolated appellate proceeding and returns administrative custody of the counterfactual record after dismissal. It does not order resentencing, disturb the conviction, or modify the February 25 district judgment within this branch.

Because the court dismissed under Rule 4(b), the mandate carries no holding about the appeal waiver, the § 3B1.1(b) role adjustment, complete denial of allocution, or any possible merits remedy. Those subjects were expressly left unresolved in the April 10 opinion.

Maela Cross certifies that the full ordinary sequence occurred: judgment on April 10, no rehearing petition by April 24, seven additional days under Rule 41(b), and mandate on May 1. Neither interval was shortened, extended, or bypassed.

The clerk serves the fictional certificate on Celia Arden, Bram Ives, and Tessa Wren through the isolated training channel. No actual docket receives it, and no actual notice, order, judgment, schedule, or disposition changes because of it. The document contains no real personal information or operational offense detail and concludes only the never-filed counterfactual exercise.
