Rule 32(j) Notice of Appellate Rights

Given and entered: February 24, 2026 Synthetic docket: SYN-MDNC-25-CR-0328 Public docket entry: DE40

After imposing sentence, Judge Elara Venn advised Mateo Serrano that, subject to his plea agreement, he may have a right to appeal the judgment and sentence. A notice of appeal must ordinarily be filed with the district clerk within 14 days after entry of judgment. If Serrano requests and qualifies for assistance, he may seek leave to proceed without prepaying allowable costs and may ask counsel or the clerk about preparing the notice.

Judgment is expected to be entered February 25, 2026. On that chronology, the ordinary 14-day filing date is March 11, 2026. This notice does not extend, shorten, or otherwise alter the governing time. Counsel should inspect the entered judgment and act promptly.

The advice was delivered after the 36-month sentence had been pronounced. It was not an invitation for Serrano to address the court before sentencing. The hearing transcript separately records that the court did not personally invite him to allocute before imposing sentence.

Plea-Waiver Context and Acknowledgment

Under the plea agreement, Serrano relinquished challenges to both the conviction and the sentence on broadly stated grounds. That surrender expressly encompasses statutory sentence review under 18 U.S.C. § 3742 and disputes about a Guidelines calculation. One narrow reservation remains: Serrano may assert that the sentencing judge wholly failed to give him the personal opportunity to allocute protected by Rule 32(i)(4)(A)(ii).

This Rule 32(j) notice does not decide which potential claims fall within that language. Serrano should consult Celia Arden regarding the waiver, the express carve-out, the judgment, and any desired filing. The notice likewise expresses no view about the merits or outcome of an appeal.

Serrano acknowledged in open court that he understood the timing advice. Arden received this written exercise notice on February 24; Bram Ives received a docket copy. Tessa Wren certifies entry as DE40 through the fictional court channel. No genuine address, account, credential, or filing instruction is included, and this training paper cannot initiate a real appeal.
