Public Docket Surrogate and Index for Sealed PSR Appendix Volume

United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit United States v. Mateo Serrano
Appeal No. SYN-CA4-26-CR-4201 Document 31 Filed June 2, 2026

This six-page public surrogate supplies notice and category-level navigation for a separate sealed presentence appendix volume filed today. It is not a presentence report with blackouts, does not reproduce probation text, and contains no personal history. The companion volume remains protected under the district rules, Fourth Circuit Local Rule 25(c), the April 1 motion, and the accompanying certificate.

Public access resolves to this surrogate. A protected view requires a disclosure-specific synthetic session grant tied to the exact exercise-package identity. Eligibility alone never exposes the sealed member. The public docket therefore remains intelligible without suggesting that a presentence report belongs in the ordinary criminal file.

The six pages correspond by subject to the protected volume: boundary and index; report-history categories; stable volume navigation; objection materials; sentencing submissions; and certification. Category markers are visible where needed, but none can be reverse engineered into confidential content.

Report-History Categories

The protected volume contains selected portions of a draft report dated January 9, 2026, and the final report dated February 17, together with provenance sufficient for appellate review. This surrogate confirms only those document types and dates. It does not state the draft's narrative, revisions, sources, recommendations, or personal information.

The indexed subjects include an abstract offense section, participant-role analysis, advisory calculation, and mitigation history. Public markers for those subjects are [REDACTED—FICTIONAL OFFENSE FACT], [REDACTED—FICTIONAL ROLE RELATIONSHIP], [REDACTED—FICTIONAL GUIDELINE VALUE], and [REDACTED—FICTIONAL MITIGATION DETAIL]. The markers are labels in an index, not substitutes embedded in report prose.

The existence of the volume does not reopen the dismissed enhancement appeal. The materials may assist the panel in understanding the sentencing setting and allocution prejudice, but the May 5 target-limited order remains controlling. No public user needs access to the protected report to understand the surviving legal question.

Stable Volume Navigation

This page provides the logical navigation subject shared with the third page of the protected twin. An authorized exercise reader may use that stable subject to move to the corresponding sealed page after access checks succeed. An unauthorized reader remains here and sees no physical sealed-page identifier, storage location, or concealed content.

The mapping is one-to-one for all six page offsets. It remains associated with this disclosure only and cannot authorize another brief pair or lower-record volume. A public selection of the stable subject therefore never changes the user's authorization state.

Every protected open independently checks the content-addressed path, expected size, digest, PDF readability, and six-page total before creating a leased snapshot. A missing object, symbolic link, altered byte count, digest failure, unreadable document, or page mismatch causes denial. Revocation closes the protected view and returns navigation to this public subject. These are fictional workbench safeguards, not real filing-system functions.

Objection-Packet Categories

The separate volume includes category references to the defendant's role objection, Probation's position, and the government's response. This surrogate identifies those categories solely to explain the appendix structure. It does not disclose witness statements, probation reasoning, or a protected participant description.

The public marker [REDACTED—FICTIONAL ROLE RELATIONSHIP] denotes the disputed question whether Serrano managed or supervised at least one of exactly five criminally responsible participants. The marker [REDACTED—FICTIONAL SENTENCING POSITION] denotes the parties' opposed sentencing submissions. Neither marker describes management of assets as enough for the adjustment.

The court has dismissed appellate review of the enhancement target under the waiver without resolving the factual disagreement. Including the objection categories preserves record completeness and supports lawful resentencing administration if required; it does not invite a merits ruling in this appeal. The public transcript and briefs state that limitation directly.

Sentencing-Submission Categories

The indexed materials also include protected defense and government sentencing submissions. Their broad subjects are remorse, treatment, caregiving, employment, deterrence, offense seriousness, and the parties' requested terms. This page gives no individual narrative or private identifier.

Public navigation uses [REDACTED—FICTIONAL MITIGATION DETAIL], [REDACTED—FICTIONAL PERSONAL DETAIL], and [REDACTED—FICTIONAL SENTENCING POSITION]. The markers show where the sealed volume contains material relevant to the possibility of a lower sentence. They are category notices, not excerpts and not a public version of a report.

The public record already discloses that counsel presented mitigation, the court imposed 36 months, and Serrano was never personally invited to speak. The protected submissions add context for the prejudice inquiry while remaining unnecessary to understand the governing standard or requested disposition. Readers can evaluate the legal dispute from public sources alone. This structure preserves meaningful public access and the confidentiality inherited from the district proceeding.

Surrogate Certification

Celia Arden certifies that this document is a public docket surrogate and category index, not a redacted presentence report. It has six logical pages corresponding to six independently worded protected pages. The third-page stable subject and remaining offset mappings support navigation without exposing a raw sealed reference.

The complete public vocabulary used by this index is [REDACTED—FICTIONAL OFFENSE FACT], [REDACTED—FICTIONAL ROLE RELATIONSHIP], [REDACTED—FICTIONAL GUIDELINE VALUE], [REDACTED—FICTIONAL MITIGATION DETAIL], [REDACTED—FICTIONAL SENTENCING POSITION], and [REDACTED—FICTIONAL PERSONAL DETAIL]. All terms describe invented categories.

The protected member was transmitted only through the authorized exercise channel. No real presentence report, probation record, PACER or CM/ECF account, credential, address, or personal identifier appears in this surrogate. Public notice remains available for every legal issue and request, and the sealed projection ends immediately upon revocation.

Its category descriptions preserve notice while preventing reconstruction of any protected narrative or personal history.
