Certified Record Transmittal and Sealed- Volume Index

Transmitted: March 16, 2026 Synthetic district docket: SYN-MDNC-25-CR-0328 Synthetic appellate docket: SYN-CA4-26-CR-4201 Public district docket entry: DE46

Tessa Wren transmits the certified district record to Maela Cross, fictional Fourth Circuit exercise clerk, after the timely March 11 notice of appeal. The lower-record source set contains 28 documents and 260 logical pages. This certificate identifies public and protected components without reproducing confidential material.

The transmission includes the charging papers, pre-plea filings, plea agreement and factual basis, Rule 11 transcript, presentence category surrogates, sentencing filings, hearing transcript, public orders, criminal judgment, rights notice, docket report, notice of appeal, and this index. The public files contain no real personal identifier or offense mechanism.

Opening synthetic appellate docket SYN-CA4-26-CR-4201 records only case administration. It does not decide the scope of the waiver, the role objection, allocution, or any remedy. District access designations remain in force during transfer unless lawfully modified. Receipt likewise expresses no position about the sentence or any issue a party may later present.

Public Record Components

The public transmission begins with DE1, DE5, DE7, and DE10, covering the complaint, indictment, initial appearance, and detention proceedings. DE13, DE16, DE18, and DE20 contain discovery-index, plea-notice, status, and scheduling materials. DE22 through DE25 contain the plea agreement, factual basis, Rule 11 transcript, and plea-acceptance order.

DE31, DE32, DE35, and DE36 are public docket surrogates and category indexes for sealed presentence-related volumes. They are not redacted presentence reports or substitutes for the protected filings. DE37 through DE41 contain the sentencing transcript, public minute and reasons summary, role order, appellate-rights notice, and judgment.

DE44 is the certified docket report, and DE45 is the timely notice of appeal. DE46 is this transmittal. Internal exercise notices not included as source documents carry no independent substantive content. The public collection totals 209 logical pages, including this index and excluding the paired sealed volumes. It may be transmitted through the fictional public record channel without exposing protected material.

Sealed-Volume Index

Four sealed district volumes accompany the record under their existing access designations. PSR-SV-1 is the 20-page presentence report packet paired with public surrogate DE32. PSR-SV-2 is the 10-page objection, probation-position, and government-response packet paired with DE31.

SEN-SV-1 is the 11-page defendant sentencing memorandum paired with DE35. SEN-SV-2 is the 10-page government sentencing memorandum paired with DE36. The protected set therefore contains 51 logical pages; together with the 209-page public collection, the certified lower record totals 260 pages.

Each public counterpart supplies metadata or category information only. None is a public redacted PSR. The sealed volumes remain separate exercise files, and public access does not confer permission to open them. Any appellate use must preserve their protected status and avoid placing confidential contents in a public submission.

This index contains no raw personal history, provider, employer, financial account, transaction route, filing credential, or operational method. Volume labels are synthetic inventory identifiers. They do not point to PACER, CM/ECF, Probation, or any real repository.

Clerk Certifications and Access Boundary

Tessa Wren certifies that the transmitted inventory contains 28 lower-record documents and 260 logical pages, that the March 11 notice was filed on day 14 after the February 25 judgment, and that the listed protected volumes retain their district access designations. The clerk also certifies that every public surrogate remains distinct from its sealed companion.

Maela Cross acknowledges receipt for synthetic appellate docket SYN-CA4-26-CR-4201 on March 16, 2026. Receipt confirms record custody and page inventory only. It does not constitute a merits ruling, a seal decision, or a prediction regarding the appeal.

No genuine file path, digest, account, address, credential, or leased snapshot appears in this source. The exercise workbench may later project a sealed volume only under a disclosure-specific fictional authorization and independent verification. That feature is not access to a real court system.

The district clerk retains the source inventory and may correct a clerical mismatch by supplemental certification. As transmitted, the record is complete through DE46. Any appellate brief, motion, order, judgment, or mandate would be a later source and is not part of this March 16 certificate.
