Jurisdiction

District jurisdiction was alleged under 28 U.S.C. § 1332(a). Appellant invokes appellate jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1291 and Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 54(b).

The January 12, 2026 order dismissed Count I with prejudice but left Count II and Copper Kestrel's counterclaim pending. On February 4, the district court granted Appellant's Rule 54(b) motion and entered a separate partial judgment. The order did not contain the words "there is no just reason for delay" and did not state findings. Appellant contends the motion and order are sufficient; Appellees dispute finality.

No other statutory or collateral-order basis is asserted. No post-judgment motion tolled the appeal time. The private-party notice was filed twenty-seven days after entry of the separate partial judgment.

Issues

1. Whether the February 4 order and separate judgment satisfy Rule 54(b) despite omission of an express determination that there is no just reason for delay.
2. If appellate jurisdiction exists, whether Section 9.2's notice-and-cure clause barred Asterglen's Count I contract damages claim.

Record and transcript

The appeal turns on written pleadings, written motions, written orders, and docket entries. No hearing was held on the summary-judgment or Rule 54(b) motions. Appellant certifies that no transcript will be ordered. The transcript certification is attached in the intended filing.

Related appeals: none in this synthetic exercise.

Mediation: the parties participated in an exercise screening only; no settlement resulted.
